SHOCKING BRUTALITY AT SEA.

An inquiry was held at Limehouse into the death of Fugeer Allin, a Lanear. The deceased was one of 29 coloured seamen engaged at Unlentta for the voyage from Akyab, in Burnah, to this country, in the Emily Augusts, 1,500 tons, Cantain Horatio Walters, an Irish American, belonging to Mesars, Brown and Co. Liverpool. On her arrival in the Milwall Docks last month, after a voyage of 63 months, appeared that nine deaths occurred on the voyage, all being, it is supposed; due to the violence of the captain and the first officer, a Datchman, named Shardt, both of whom have been arrested on a charge of murder. The death of Allin, who died since his admission into the Home, is likewise attributed to the brutality transfer the contents of the house to a dry well he is alleged to have received at their hands. The witnesses against the captain and first officer are the two English lade, the second officer, and the surviving Lascars, and their evidence, so far as it has been taken, has gone taking were stripped. The instruments by which the deaths and wounds are stated to have been caused were the ship's belaying pins. A youth named Kalloo, it is suid, was struck by one of these pins and fell down-dead, while two more men died within a few minutes of being beaten. The others were washed overboard, being rendered powerless by the injuries they had sustained.

That it should be possible to revise a contract, so important to this country, and to the maintenance of which it largely contributes, without reference to the Government of India or to local public opinion, is very much to be regretted, and I shall shortly address the Government on the subject, not in view to reopen what has already been settled, but with the object of preventing a recurrence of the anomaly, and to secure at least in expression of the wishes of the community of India before changes are made in the service through which its communications with Europe are maintained. TORPEDOES. (Army and Navy Gazotte.) There is a torpedo mania just now among the editors, and the amount of very absur-"leadering" that is to be read in consequence Sergeant-Major or Colour-Sergeant refused; must be very distructing to those who know the real role of torpedoes, whether fixed or mobile, and appreciate the uses they can be put to in war. It is pretty evident that torpedoes cunnot win battles on the bigh seas, that Naval supremacy can never be established or destroy by torpedoes, and that the utmost they can do is to render blockades exceedingly hazardous and precarious, and to make attacks on ports and hostile movements in shallow waters perllous if not impossible. There is no reason to think that any contrivunce in the way of directing a torpedo from one ship in motion against another ship in motion can ever do more than set it on a very vague venture. The changes against the occurrence of an opportune explosion are enormous, and in a great naval action the erratic proceeding of these agencies would be quite as likely to furt friends as enemies, To say that a huge iron-ulud is to be at the mercy of a little torpedo ship with a cocky Captain, is simply to assert that the greater is less than the lesser, and that the Captain of the greater must necessarily be a man of smaller capacity than the Captain of the smaller. As to fixed torpedoes, and moving or fixed ships, there is not so much undertainty. "When Greek meets Greek then is the tug connect tin conducts of copper and abundantly of war." The important question of "Tor- deposited, If a piece of silver be placed inside se decided in favour of the ironolade. The resuit of a series of experiments, which is at present in course of development against the Oberon at Stokes Bay, so far as it has actually gone, proves conclusively that an attack of stationary torpodo upon an upproaching vessel would not be attended with serious consequences to the latter. Submarine mines, containing each 500 pounds of compressed gun-outton, equivalent to 2,000 pounds of gunpowder, have been fired at the following respective distances from the side of the Oberon, in 8 chests; Mulwa, $570 on credit. On each occasion, great local disturbance resulted, and a superb column of water was thrown up to a height of some 150 feet, carrying with it the oases and other matters forming the appurtenances of the terpede, but no considerable damage was effected either to the Oberon or to its live occupants, consisting of sheep, fowls, and rabbits. In point of fact, all that occurred was a slight beeling over of the vessel, and a consequent shifting of its movable contents, ON UALGUTTA, -Bank, on demand 2212 the stanchions and other supports being at the same time loosened by the violence of the shock. No leak of importance was, however, made, and the vessel was towed into dock comparatively intact. AN INDIAN DANCING PARTY. A correspondent of the New York Herald writing from the Red Cloud Agency, gives an account of a soirce dansante of Red Indians at that place which appears to have been a brilliant and obserful affair. The occasion was a " for dance," got up for the benefit of an Englist artist who is sketching at the agency. There were present about 80 or 40 Indians on foot, attired in fantastic costumes, and under the command of Sitting Bull or Three Knives and Red Hand, who were both mounted. The Indians presented "quite a weird picture" as they danced up to the agency, yelling and firing off their guns. The musicians occupied a position in the centre of the circle, beating time on the tomtom and singing a kind of dirge. The ridden by Three Knives had white spots of paint all over his hindquarters, representing the different places where his horses had been shot when in battle. Several hands were painted on the animal ridden by Red when that chief had been near enough to the enemy for them to lay a hand upon his horse.
